Novack and Macey Celebrates 25 Years!

DECEMBER 3RD, 2009

We are thrilled to announce that 2009 is the 25th anniversary year for Novack and Macey. Co-founded by Steve Novack and Eric Macey, Novack and Macey opened its doors on December 3, 1984, with one secretary and one first-year associate. Staying true to the focus on sophisticated commercial litigation, and with boundless hard work and dedication, we have grown into a 30-plus attorney firm that the Chicago Tribune called a “high powered litigation boutique.”

We are celebrating our 25th anniversary with a donation to Chicago’s Lincoln Park Zoo, which is home to one of our Small but Mighty mascots, the tiny Poison Dart Frog. There will also be a firm-wide celebration in December, which promises to be a joyful and boisterous event. The firm proudly notes that in addition to some of the partners, several members of the staff have been employed for over 20 years. “Everyone’s continued dedication and excellent work all these years has contributed mightily to our success,” states Macey. Adds Novack, “The close-knit working environment plays a large role in the firm’s ability to fully represent our clients.”

For 25 years, Novack and Macey has been successfully serving clients and trying cases across Chicago. We look forward to many more years of fruitful practice. We love what we do!
