Novack and Macey Attorney Monte L. Mann Wins Preliminary Injunction to Protect Client's Trade Secrets

JUNE 2ND, 2011

Novack and Macey LLP partner Monte Mann successfully obtained a preliminary injunction in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois. The preliminary injunction will help protect a client's trade secrets.

The client, an insurance company, entered into a series of marketing agreements with an insurance agency affiliated with a large financial services institution. Under the agreements, the client sold various insurance products, and the insurance agency, among other things, collected premiums. After the parties' marketing agreements terminated, the insurance agency solicited the client's customers and threatened to directly transfer insurance premiums received from the client's customers to a different insurance company.

In response, the client hired Novack and Macey, which filed a complaint against the insurance agency, and a motion for a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction. The Court granted preliminary injunctive relief in the client's favor on June 2, 2011, prohibiting the insurance agency from transferring premiums or soliciting certain customers during the pendency of the lawsuit.
