Novack and Siegel Win Appeal and Defeat a Putative Class Action at its Onset, Before any Class Certification or Merits Proceedings

MARCH 26TH, 2012

Novack and Macey partners Steve Novack and Steve Siegel have prevailed for their client in the Illinois Appellate Court. They defeated a putative class action at the outset of the suit before the expense of class certification and merits proceedings could even begin.

Shortly after the suit was filed, Novack and Siegel moved to dismiss the lawsuit. After extensive briefing and argument, the trial court granted the motion and entered an order of dismissal.

The plaintiffs appealed. In a unanimous opinion issued on March 2, 2012, the Illinois Appellate Court affirmed the dismissal of the suit with prejudice. Novack led the briefing and Siegel argued the appeal.
