Novack and Macey Attorneys Secure Complete Dismissal of a Case Against Their Client

OCTOBER 23RD, 2009

On October 23, 2009, Novack and Macey attorneys P. Andrew Fleming, Richard G. Douglass and Givonna L. Long secured the complete dismissal of a case filed against their client, KUB Technologies, Inc. (“KUBTEC”).

KUBTEC provides x-ray systems for diverse applications and environments. Earlier this year, Faxitron X-Ray Corporation (“Faxitron”), filed suit against KUBTEC, alleging that KUBTEC and a former Faxitron employee violated the Illinois Trade Secrets Act (“ITSA”). Faxitron also asserted several related common law claims. On behalf of KUBTEC, Novack and Macey argued to the Court that the common law claims were preempted by the ITSA, and that the allegations of Faxitron’s ITSA claim were insufficient to establish any wrongdoing by KUBTEC.

Circuit Court of Cook County Judge LeRoy K. Martin, who presided over the matter, agreed with Novack and Macey. Accordingly, he dismissed the ITSA claim against KUBTEC in its entirety, and ruled that the common law claims were preempted.
