

Back to News

Novack and Macey Welcomes Two New Partners

JANUARY 5TH, 2009

Novack and Macey LLP is pleased to announce that Andrew D. Campbell and Courtney D. Tedrowe have become partners of the firm.

Andrew represents a variety of clients in commercial litigation matters, including contract actions, business torts, real estate and intellectual property disputes. In addition to serving as trial co-counsel in state and federal courts and before the American Arbitration Association, Andrew has argued before the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit. In 2008 and 2009, Andrew was named a "Rising Star," and one of the Top Young Commercial Litigation Attorneys in Illinois. Before joining Novack and Macey in 2003, Andrew was an associate at Mayer Brown LLP, and he graduated from Loyola University Chicago School of Law, magna cum laude.

Courtney's clientele runs the gamut from individuals and start-up businesses to Fortune 500 Companies, and his practice encompasses an extremely broad range of commercial, financial and partnership disputes. Courtney has substantial trial experience in Federal and state courts nationwide, and arbitral settings such as the New York Stock Exchange and the American Arbitration Association. While Courtney has had repeated success trying cases in court, he also successfully represents his clients in less adversarial contexts, such as mediations. Courtney acutely recognizes that each client's case is unique, and requires a unique strategy for successful resolution. This year, Chicago Magazine recognized Courtney a "Rising Star" and one of the Top Young Commercial Litigation Attorneys in Illinois. Prior to joining Novack and Macey in 2002, Courtney practiced at Dewey Ballantine LLP in New York City, and he graduated from Cornell Law School, cum laude.

Novack and Macey is proud to welcome these two outstanding litigators to the partnership. We look forward to their continued contribution in the years to come.

For more information, please contact Donald Tarkington, Managing Partner, at 312.419.6900.