MARCH 10TH, 2011

The Posse Foundation, a national non-profit organization that provides college scholarships to deserving but overlooked public high school students, has recognized Novack and Macey co-founder Eric Macey for his service. He is featured in the group’s winter 2011 national newsletter.

Eric is described as an “exemplary legal professional” who is “equally invested in his community and truly believes in Posse’s promise.” “As chair of the Posse Chicago Advisory Board since 2005, Eric has led the Chicago Chapter through a period of tremendous growth, helping to increase the number of partner schools, hosting many successful fundraising events and greatly expanding individual donor support,” the article states. Posse President and Founder Deborah Bial said the organization owes its success to “Board members like Eric.”

The Foundation identifies students who have been overlooked by the traditional college selection process and provides four-year, full-tuition leadership scholarships from Posse’s partner institutions of higher education.
